Adinkra symbol meaning:

fortitude and readiness to face life's vicissitudes

"This symbol suggests a reinforced or well-built home -- one built to withstand windy and treacherous conditions. It reflects in Asante history a clause in the unwritten constitution of the Golden Stool. Oral accounts say that according to that clause, mud houses in Kumasi must be reinforced with turf. This reinforcing would cause the house to be sturdier and resistant to unfavorable weather conditions."

The Solid Universe Theory is a condition set forth by the attraction of a Plant Kingdom set within those terrestrial boundaries superior to a circumstance of life engineered by a set and uniform reliance on a gas which must be eventually evenly distributed, or else, followed by this stipulation, chaos must will develop. A Plant Kingdom Family will also characterize, furthermore, that a(n) (exo)skeleton must be made stable both for the advantage of a rooted maintenance as well as for a mobile maintenance. Carbon – a familiar organic wall – helps to achieve and actuate a mobile function in acceptance of a linear (light driven) purpose to life, though this method is a selected hidden priority of volunteered equality made tolerable, but less-favored within this ingenuity by vapors (gases) which are determinatively less

He realizes, however, at last, that learning and unlearning a religion is as much a waste of time as attempting to always go back to China where the rice is much better and the tea is so good.

As a diversion, perhaps, a test on this hypothesis, should begin with a sampling of a substituted unwanted or decayed state of living that includes those barriers to a rooted kingdom that are traditionally commonplace features and fixtures of a threatened, but aware kingdom – Animalia – such as dams and walls, fences, and so forth. Without exclusion, those partitions should also include those historical devices of Homo Sapiens engineering – The Great Wall Of China; The Berlin Wall; The Wall of Jericho, as well as other barriers of this type such as along the border crossing between what is today's Mexico and The United States. This technology – a customary of stock

Such a perpetually youthful device (a clerical, agricultured, nervous medicine or compound), by those manipulations, implies that such a Geological Period exists as a unequaled construct to a uniform theory of gas displacement that can be tolerated or inferred as a Solid Universe Equation that standardly credits a value of zero from point-to-point anywhere within this matched device of

The jungle – or a heavily wooded area – must cooperate with not a volunteered truce, but a price on a privilege that increases the effect of Primal Selectivity – First Order Creation – where a mutual champion (such as a Gas and Combustion Theory) promotes independence on the management of Carbon for a selfish tendency first and a shared co-equal equivalent balance secondly. This is to say that a Kingdom on Animalia majors in its own welfare though, developmentally, it is challenged (chastised) in this effort by a rooted Plant Kingdom that legislates an afflicted personality – Gullibility or Weakness(es) – A Fish Tale philosophy. The Homo Sapient, consumed and activated by vector analysis, takes away from this plan by participating in this scheme upon the Periodic Table, a proposal to re-establish a forest by erecting a wall, despite the will of his neighbors, so to afford security for his efforts (war-strategy)

Expansion of the Forest from the Wall(s) erected by Animalia are, not exaggeratedly, a must have invitation to sponsor a repetitious proposition that expects a culprit to be named as a result of certain irresponsibility attributed to an often third party such as an absent landlord. Still, however, in these cases, the ever scourging Alliance of Plants – to the dismay of a quarrelsome (out-of-sync) Animal Kingdom – have already noted which side of the fence has been selected for reforestation despite a declaratively opposing infighting among the particulars that (must)

Bugs, beetles, rodents, and the like, by their increase, absence, malice, etc., share in a physical sense those antenna and whiskers – often of an electro-magnetic mechanical notoriety, so to dominate complacency toward the opposite.

It seems hardly worth the effort to describe how and why and when this transition occurs; but it is, nevertheless, evident that on a global scale – mass extinctions happen. Classical gaseous theory clearly demonstrates supports for basic technological innovation standards for each climax community. Such is to say that a model rocket is not out of the range of (wooden) wonders for such a private municipality, provided it accepts that meager responsibility to remain so arranged for inclusion in a metal industry devoid of mechanical radio interference. Infrared guidance systems, however, must connect, therefore, to a Solid State capacity and readiness formula that can explain how convection energy (Gaseous State) connects to conduction energy (Solid State). Solid State advances require new

For Example:

The Satan-God has attempted this formula and has been eliminated eventually in Real Time and by degrees so that 'He may be witnessed making that mistake despite 'His machines that are versed in Time Travel thinking, i.e. chain saws and the like – by content and context: A supple Solid State

Technology despite its/their dignified gearing. Limbs and branches discarded by weather phenomena escape this denotation, by historical record and account, and can be gathered, more-or-less, without fault excepting where that method rouses the forest lice (spiders and snakes).

Atomic power (A Satan-God technology) attracts an inconvenient duplicity of conveniences for neglect of a known functional gaseous notation that depends on fence straddling (solar-electric) for successful integration.

That technology – tremendous though it may be – cannot work for the purpose of propulsion. Walking and Bicycling are more efficient in the long run and provides a cost structure not out of line with Gaseous and/or Solid State Theory and ability – those without implementation or force that sever reality for the sake of consciousness (Politics). Atomic theory correctly realizes that conventional theoretical instantaneous (faster than light) point-to-point travel across the universe depends on the placement of a Black Hole theory. This is an invention fraught with terrible difficulties – Ground Control loss – and therefore, electronic equipment failure. Connecting Solid State theory to instantaneous point-to-point travel across the universe admits to a Ground Control solution. Uncivilized behavior is the barrier to this technology. Religion, however, often admits to the use of Magic.

The Church and its aggregate wisdom (too: Masonic Lodge, Science Temple, Rotary, etc.) sets a standard of insincerity on a community state by vexing those efforts of stability (unrehearsed education) that are managed by the public's anticipation of morality (social stimulation) which satisfy those identified complex standards of trust that, without known formula, negotiate dissatisfaction or complement stability for the purposes of administering culture and not (deliberate) premature transience (frustration). A miracle of disappointments (Socialism unrelated to Communism) follows in the wake of an effort afforded by community to structure (guard) a base of support (instinct) that relies on a central idea unrelated to natural cognition and empathy (alien patience). In this case, the diversion here states that the Demon(s) which does not want to be caught is now on alert because he knows that the people are watching more closely. A community, as a whole, cannot afford to hire lenient selfishness and affix therein a government basis that is tolerable of a religious ideal which is not negotiable to intelligent wit – which is to say – a demon can sometimes be assumed though it makes an ass (liar) of the rule. Theoretically, because a person sometimes – “Just Knows” – unaccountable religion (poverty) does hide

Poverty cannot long be an irascible bedfellow which retains a purpose foreign to a decided relationship with profitable commerce and, too, at the address of oversight by restriction and inspection. Everyone knows this or suspects this to be accurate.

Reform must address a point-of-no-return or else those measures at reorganization will include a forgery that, candidly, invents still further decline because of a loss of ground control. Those forgeries on that deceit also improve implementation of a cure for excess (Prohibition) or novelty (Prescriptive Education, i.e., Rehabilitation projects). Once a Family establishes a moral ground for certitude within an area of appeasement (a point-of-no-return), the Church, in its neglect for usual moral stability within that foundation, nevertheless often chooses to chastise a common law community for its perceived haste in eliminating congregationally competitive and complete, but not opportunistic, welfare for, on proposition (sarcastically), the satisfaction of an oversized public scrutiny (inclusive of profiteering).

Whereas, too, if not inappropriately, so it remains sudden that a margin of lust cannot long be borne by the promise and proximity of Government, as it, that supervision, must afford that public contentment called equal employment opportunity alone. The Church is irresponsible if within a mission, it unduly harasses the politic jurisdictions communally organized to the benefit of a sustained community, to offer, instead, a noted intolerance at that same level, so to dupe a congregation into stalking a cheat on Government that demands a recount of a community to incite revocation of its licenses for an assessment that fictitiously manufactures out of community a goal-seeking that must have cleverly disproportionately disenfranchised itself in not including more members of other races within the boundaries of that (purposeful, if not prosperous, but protected) reservation optioned conveniently along a beneficial racial strategy. Segregation is normal and not immoral. The (helpful) Church is tolerable of Gold and Silver only. The Church, no matter how modest, cannot charge itself a fee when it calls people names and solicits itself for Government funds. The Church – a Magical Business – often cheats at this trust so to guide itself to a meaning that cannot be adjusted to

An active Church must eventually fail should it enlist the aid of Black Magic.

A natural answer to a natural problem will exist despite any solution to eliminate a natural explanation.

A craving for wine can be eliminated by eating peeled, cooked pears in their own juice. If one doesn't get it, try two. Canned pears made this way are really not that bad.

Artichokes will want a person to drink Beer. Non-Alcoholic brews tend to satisfy this equation. Try mushrooms (not battered and fried) if that doesn't work out.

#T2Q's Weekly Show is Ending!

The Talk 2 Q Radio Show will no longer air each Tuesday and Wednesday!

Almost seven years ago, I decided to do something just for the sake of scratching it off of my bucket list. I wanted to be a talk radio show host. So, I took a plunge into what was to be one episode and lo and behold, I'm now 750 episodes in.

But, what can I say? All good things must come to an end. It's time for me to move on to a different chapter of my life and that means that I can no longer continue to write, produce, host, and market the show.

What does this mean for you, the listener?

For the T2Q fans, it means that over the next couple of months, the talk show will be fading to black. I will air shows periodically until my final live show, which will be Tuesday, February 20th, 2018. Exactly seven years from the day that I started. Shortly after that, my partnership with Blogtalkradio will dissolve and the archives of the show will only be found on iTunes, TuneIn, Podcast Alley, and places of that sort. Every blue moon, when I feel the urge, I'll dial up some of the Show Legends and we'll record a podcast or two. But, there will be no more calling into T2Q or live listens.

What does this mean for sports fans and Zone Coverage listeners?

Zone Coverage will continue to air weekly until the day after the Super Bowl and then its weekly live show will cease. I'm undecided as to if I want to continue that or not. Being that sports is such a huge hobby of mine and the preparation time for the show is minimal, it's still something that I may be able to maintain during certain times of the year.

But, I do want to say that I truly appreciate everyone who has made this show a success. Over 200,000 listens is nothing to sneeze at when you consider how many options you have to listen to talk radio online.

Over the next couple of weeks, things will go as followed:

Zone Coverage, Wednesday, December 6th @ 9 PM Eastern

Zone Coverage, Tuesday, December, 11th @ 9 PM Eastern

T2Q Show #750, Wednesday, December 12th @ 9 PM Eastern

T2Q (live) interview with DMarcella Lyles, Tuesday, December 19th @ 9 PM Eastern

Thank you so much for being a part of T2Q and I hope to hear from you on Show #750!

There's a traffic ensemble anchor in Dallas, Texas by the name of Demetria Obilor. As you can see by the photos, she's extremely attractive. However, that's working against her in the eyes of some of her viewers.

Here's the thing: you can be a TV personality and be attractive, but you have to do it by "societal standards".

What does that mean? You can't be urban with it. No extreme curves. Booty, hips, and thighs need not apply when it comes to being a female sex symbol in the U.S. In other words, you can't be too black with it (despite the fact that some white women pay top dollar for surgical enhancements to "black it up", for lack of a classier phrase).

We need to find a way to put a stop to this behavior. First of all, she's a news personality who is doing her job. Just like all of us, she has a right to choose whatever profession that she wants. And let's throw in the fact that this Nigerian/American was born this way. Why should she change who she is genetically because Jan Shedd and a few others think that she's too hot for TV? Should she wear a muumuu instead of a dress that fits?

Secondly, she has the right to flip her profession into whatever entrepreneurship she chooses. That includes recognizing the fact that people are enamored with her looks and turning that into a modeling/speaking/hosting hustle. I'm a firm believer in using what you got to get what you want. That means she can be a news personality and a model simultaneously.

And lastly, when are we going to accept the fact that it's okay for women to be sexy and respected at the same time? Why does it have to be one or the other? Can a lady be good-looking and knowledgeable? Does credibility only come in a size 4 with straight blond hair and blue eyes?

Leave the Demetria Obilors and women like her alone. Every year there's someone different who catches backlash for having a banging body on a newscast (usually black or Latina). Ironically, the criticism seems to come almost exclusively from women. And ladies should be supporting her instead of tearing her down.

If a shirtless Dwayne "Rock" Johnson did local weather, do you think guys would be on Facebook saying that it's too much? Hardly. We'd either say that it was cool or we would just change the channel.

It's time out for the foolishness, ladies. Stop shaming these ladies just because your man is watching a lot more news than he did a few months ago.

As A Black Man, Should I Boycott The #NFL?

by Talk2

Okay, so we've all been hearing about the controversy behind Colin Kaepernick taking a knee during the National Anthem last season. It's been discussed for a year now, but it's reared its ugly head once again because a new season is about to start.

For those who have been living under a rock, let me explain what's been happening over the past 365 days or so. Kaep, who was a member of the San Francisco 49ers at the time, decided to take a stand against police brutality. Unlike most athletes these days, Kaep decided to use his platform as an NFL player to raise awareness to his cause. He said that he would take a knee during the National Anthem until this country took a stand against the treatment of black and brown people by the police.

The response from the media? "Colin Kaepernick hates the troops!"

Of course, that same rhetoric came from the fans as well (since we take instruction from the media on where and how to direct our outrage). Fans said that Kaepernick was disrespecting the veterans because he would not stand for the Star Spangled Banner. Rarely was police brutality mentioned at all during the many weeks and months of this controversy. It's been Kaepernick vs. the USA. The whole message of police brutality was lost thanks to the media's spin.

Well, now that the controversy is a hot topic again, thanks to a new season kicking off, I started receiving a video link on Facebook about boycotting the NFL. You may have seen it, but if you haven't, then peep it here:

First, I want to applaud the people who put together the video. Any time black people get together to do something positive, then I'm all for it... in most cases. This one, I still can't get with the message.

The focus of this video, to me, is that once Kaepernick gets his job back, then everything is good. No, it's not. The message has been lost again.

Boycotting the NFL to get Kaepernick's job back will not fix police brutality against black and brown people in this country. Does the NFL need to be brought down a peg? Absolutely. These 32 "owners" are undoubtedly blackballing a player who could contribute to just about all of the teams in the league. But not watching games won't hurt anyone other than the TV stations, who may lose some ratings.

The best way to boycott the NFL is to boycott their sponsors directly. That's what happened with Michael Vick. People boycotted his sponsors and they dumped him faster than you can say "Hector 'Macho' Camacho".

Do you think Budweiser cares if you don't watch an NFL game as long as you're getting a six pack on your way home? Do you think Nike cares if you're watching Kaepernick play as long as you keep buying their apparel? No, they won't. Because they would still be getting your money.

And would you stop your son from watching the games, too? Especially if he is an up and coming star looking to play in the NFL some day?

Don't get me wrong. So much has to be done to right a lot of wrongs in this country. But, our approach will determine if it works or not. Keep boycotting and not voting and you won't see very much change. Be mindful of where you spend your money if you want to promote change.

In fact, encouraging the players to do more is the best route to go. If 70% of the NFL is made up of black players, then wouldn't that be the best place to start? No players, no games? If it worked for the University of Missouri's football team, then it can work for the NFL players, too.

So, will I "black out" the NFL games this season? Nope. I will watch like I always do. Will I buy a Budweiser, Nikes, Gatorade, or something else that sponsors the NFL? Nope. And I don't think that you should either.

Consumer sponsorship boycotting is the way to go. History agrees with me.

So You Want to Be an Author

By Carmen Hendrix

Years ago I embarked on the journey of writing. Unfortunately, I got through nine chapters and stopped. It just didn't feel right and something seemed off. I'd let a few of my co-workers read what I'd written and they were all excited about it, anticipating the ending. Yet, I never finished. I blamed it on life getting in the way. That was true, it had. I let fear drive me to focus on other things, exploring other career options, and I even stopped writing altogether. It was the worst time of my life. About nine years later, I decided that I needed to stop running from myself and get out of my own way. I needed to finish my book. I needed to get my story told and bring people into my world.

I published my first book on August 2, 2016. It was invigorating, stressful, empowering, and I felt established. I was officially a published author after all. I'd done the research which allowed me to avoid many of the "freshman mistakes" and I was ready to be embraced by the world as a best-selling author. I was going to be in Oprah's Book Club, win awards, and become widely known. Until I wasn't.

The reality of it all is that it takes time, and a great marketing plan. You definitely have to think outside the box, turn your book signing into an event, market outside of your friends and family, and find your target audience. One thing is for certain, you have to develop thick skin. I'm sure you have read all of this before. But, have you read about the other side? The depth and fortitude it takes to bring your vision to life? The long nights? Early mornings? Hours without eating? I didn't think so. Being an author is a business. We all hear that the best business is your business, especially if it is your passion. It's true. You don't mind the long hours, or that your business has engulfed your social life. You enjoy what you do. Here is what I have learned. I hope you use these tips as a guide to be the best author you can be:

1. Read. How can you be a good writer if you don't read? Consider reading some of your favorite authors and really explore what makes them great. Implement those techniques into your writing.
2. Write. If you don't sit down and write, you will never be the author you aspire to be. Tell your story!
3. Break. Get up and take a break. I'm guilty of getting so engrossed in the story that I will type for hours, even when I am tired. It results in many typographical errors, grammatical errors, and burnout. When you are tired, take a break. Set time limits for yourself and stick to them. It saves you a lot of time in the end because your corrections won't be so plentiful. Use this time for family and friends. Also, begin to think of how you plan on marketing the book. Your friends can help you with that.

4. Eat. Schedule it. Make sure you eat. This is another thing of which I am guilty and I have taken steps to correct it. It results in bad headaches and other health issues. So grab a snack and eat.
5. Share. This is a tricky one. Share your book with someone you trust, and make sure they have a good grasp on the English language. They can help you get through a few scenes and ensure that what you see in your head is what you have written on paper, down to the most minute detail. Which leads me to my next tip...

6. Find a mentor. Having a mentor who has been through it, and who can help you develop your manuscript, is one of the best investments you can make in yourself. Your mentor can help you in ways that other people can't. They have the experience you lack and can guide you and keep you in-the-know. Remember, you don't know what you don't know.

7. Foreword thinking. Find someone to write your foreword for you. It seems small, but is HUGE in the grand scheme of things. If you know someone who has a large following, or fan base. Give them a copy of your book ASAP and ask them to write a foreword that will knock your reader's socks off.

8. Read it aloud. Read, and re-read for errors, then read it aloud. Reading what you've written aloud allows you to determine if you like what you hear. Another great tip is to read each sentence backwards to see if there are errors (ex. missed letters in a word or punctuation errors.)

9. Polish it. Do yourself a favor and hit "select all" then make sure your font is black. Polish up your presentation by ensuring the chapters are marked properly. Is your heading correct on each page? Is your font consistent? Did you include the copyright information? Dedication page? Author page? Are your pages numbered? Have you asked someone to read over you back cover blurb to ensure it is engaging? What does your cover look like? Do you have your ISBN? Does it look like a book in the book store?

7. Edit. Find a good editor. You need someone with fresh eyes to look for things you did not see. They can also ensure that your manuscript has an easy-to-read flow. It is a great investment.

8. Get involved. Get involved in your community and make yourself known. Find some book clubs to join and develop relationships with them so that they will not only read your book, but share it with others.

9. Find some betas. Get some beta readers, preferably from those book clubs. Ask them to read and provide a review. This is where your ARC (Advanced Reader Copy) comes in handy. You can even vet them to ensure that they are avid readers in your genre and that they will provide a review. Don't expect your betas to always give you great reviews. Instead, ask for honest critiques. That is how you improve your manuscript before you release it.

10. Re-Read. Re-read your book again and make updates based on suggestions from your beta readers and editor. By the time you finish editing, you will be sick of the book, but you will know every nuance of your characters and will be able to answer any question an interviewer throws in your direction. This is also your chance to do your final edits.

11. Polish it again. See number 9. Also, save the document as a PDF file and review it. This is how it will look when printed, so check for color variations and make sure pictures are within the page perimeters.

11. Market it. Implement your marketing plan and be consistent. Remember, even if you have a publisher, it is still your responsibility to tell people who you are. If people know who you are, they are more likely to buy your book. New readers don't know you and want to know if your book is worth the price. Offering book teasers, doing interviews, sending out press kits, etc. allows your reader to get to know you and see what the book is about. Try to get some book bloggers on board to help you get your writing out to the world.

Being a published author is very involved and whether you want to self-publish, or find an agent to help you publish traditionally, these basic steps are a good solid start. Stay tuned for more information about the wonderful world of books.

Instead of reacting, the host, realizing now that the fella is a bi-sexual, "punches" the guy (out) by serving him (alone) mixed drinks from the bar to suit his taste, along with the punch served to the other guests, until the crasher, stoked to the gills, is tempted to take a swing on another fellow who chastises him because he - according to the witnesses - believed that there were two. The Lost Part of Suicide

RASUL HIJAZ EL-WEDNESDAY,
OCTOBER 18, 2017

By RaSul Tahir Hijaz El

A man or a People whom are known by their handicaps to be insane, cannot be protected by the resources of the State so to assume an unnatural debt (carelessness) inwards of that Personage (rootlessness) and their effluence or continued persecution, fixed by statutory debate (business ownership) at the hands of invention (policy) on a intemperate, not contemporary investment (escapism).

Chosen by a topical resource of timeliness are those guilty of a known trespass on a decidedly written doctrine of mastery so administered to their concerns of ethics for which that — or those assumptive notions — persuades those in trust of that formula a guarantee.

Swear first to what is reasonable within the law where that accountability is grave upon the distinction between the sexes and their wedded effort not in excess of tenure to probability.

Such opportunity for belief dictates the way in which instruction, and therefore education, must propose a benefit that, too, cannot be overcome by a given, but unprovoked loss, when history matches those strides with a purposeful, not penal, equilibrium that insists that a force of action is all too manageable. This is not terrorism. A maniac is presumed, not privileged, to be out-of-control as much as he makes of or for himself fame and

That is the Red Sea. They are not extremists to believe in a different measure of salvation. To err and continue to err is rejected by faith in a workable habit.

A People whom are difficult in the way of accountability (force, mass, and distance) to a non-treenuous account of physics – action & reaction – decide by their activation of ownership (unlawfulness), a business design that

A man of obscure talents could not, without knowledge, rehearse upon himself in his way of anger and ethical commotions, an odd way of sacrifice to his and their, inhibitions – unless he would take his own life upon the point of his controlled exasperation and admit to that defeat a Charge (A New Testament) or, by extremes, a Poison (alcoholism). fear of procrastination, he would not then like to be that certain a (prescriptive) Jew, but would instead account himself streetwise — a man without conflict who would renege on that same abandonment of faith — so to prove (that there exists) a remedy in an untimely share of haste. This man has come to me and called himself, Jehovah. I would not measure him except to allow that a daemon must yet exist, without sparseness to each sex, and so yet, too, a preoccupation on deliverance so demanded to a practice of delusion, that by his denial, has equipped him to a region outside

That's way too much mouth.

Love and Utility (must) find (finally) [a] division. Jehovah would love (of) everything and create of that mistake a misery.

So where would this realization — a process — found a peaceful state in proportion to a progress in Law that is presupposed by factual numbers?

A man who is (nothing) might choose upon his example of health a life

A man who might be everything might select to abandon the abolishments given as justice inwards of love (family ties) — so therefore to kill himself in the process of needing still either that one (more) something (moral interest), or propositionally, anything (at all) that could spell erratic advocacy despite his notoriety — each to his insistence. An introspection upon this idea, not contaminated by political accusations and enforcement(s) to obscurity, grade this renewed passage of time on the value of an investment known to have occurred by a testimony of population and an authority of individuality processed by a genetic guard (Sexuality) and

and Other Non-Negotiable Contracts

by RaSul Tahir Hijaz El

It is essential to clarify that I identify a proposition of service to a supported function on government that is matched to an accountability practice

(a two-way expenditure). One such article of reasoning adopts an indicator of fortune upon feasibility to that of marginalized thinking — a less definite, more productive article of practical reassurance of an innate ability (self-worth) of adaptation — when faith is accepted as not an idealized logic, but retained as part of a practiced counter-part of biologically accountable territorialism. Clout — an investment on a decided inventory and a non-negotiable contract — carries a biological demand of opportunity for that commitment to an industry which suggests merit through leadership that is decided upon by decisively social interactions which intercept an acceptable and appropriate demeanor. Caricature — an instrument of terror to that comportment — the non-eraseable (enduring) division of acceptable (a chemical industry) and appropriate (a mineral industry) — destroys those logical necessities of mind that solicits balance on one end and, too, demonstrates analytical right on those prescriptions to perception that must achieve an identified family unit, that, without persuasion, often defines an emotional success story and a territorial alignment upon the same body.

To be overcome by a demonic horde is to assumptively, without charge to castrating speculation, accept that, in avoidance of that ritual — demonic terrorism — a chemical and mineral industry must devote some portion of its thinking to migration — a momentum based slingshot in an arsenal of weaponry that is uniquely founded upon a genetics toolset so describing a lasting and best value aim. A demon would not, for fear of discovery, like to track a man down where his natural (living) world supposes that the man is a rooted kingdom (a domain) and a cluster of conditions (a range) open only to that survival in the sense of the Homo Sapiens — a tool-maker industry (a function). A demon what which does such a thing is charged under the universal law that defends a host from attack by an invisible enemy.

Should I, by terrorism (?), charge, thusly, that the United States, without legal acceptability, manage my non-penal, continued homelessness to a purgatory of frustrations, not on par with accountability to a justifiable incarceration, so that to each charge of worthlessness it presumes upon myself through that forged condition (ignorance of its ways) — a billing practice that labors itself a demon by those descriptions which do not fall short of the acumen which necessarily (monetarily) suggests that this brand is so — I must yet believe and contend that my way is useful. YourSelf's are still attempting to work for and against the law at the same time while cornered, still, by the dollar demand that Yourself's are a must pay duty for the amount not escaped Yourself's attentions.

YourSelf's, as the United States, have presented to Yourself's and myself (in person - Veteran's Legal Services - See my file.)

It is certain, of course, on the Real, that a person patient such as Lolita Drummond, MSW — named purposely "immune to prosecution" by the Federal Court Northern District of Illinois in a letter (mail fraud) addressed to myself at PO Box 802762, Chicago IL 60680 — must be presumed dangerous in that, upon her active trespass within a facility in dedicated performance of a neglect upon a client, she outwits those non-elusive and systematic implements of education and surveillance, to associate her presence with one of an honorable character, so to have the one (now) in trespass upon the law, equip herself with the authority to deny wrongdoing and lay blame wherever her path may take her as she expects to incite terror, delay, loathing, distrust, and assault(s) by those limitless restrictions for which she is now care given within that package of exemptions. I should, therefore, be able to bill the United States, forward of an anticipated response for that tragedy, and/or, as a commonplace charge for the excessive weight of insufferable persecutions that extend from her inducements and advice that immobilizes a prepared security and conditional sanity, I would not like to steep myself in regret(s).

When a government disallows a legal method to a resolution admitted into acceptable practice, a person must not attempt to use or force prayer into being as a negotiable instrument. The dollar ("In Trust") fixes a standard of accuracy to a measure worth contemplating.

By law, this woman, Lolita Drummond, MSW, must be presumed to be crazy, crazed, or a psychopath while she is still on the job and offering advice (signing) into an inoperable action — prayer at anytime — an invention on those contracts so offered to a Chaplain.

In so saying, The (U.S.) Federal Court System at the Northern District of Illinois, upwind of a mixed, presumptively derogatory investigation, has claimed that Lolita Drummond, MSW, knows every goddamned thing, but won't allow her to pay. This is what as known as Black Magic — a sel(fish) promotion of Contempt on the Court itself — A People. The State must should pay. If not, let her be on her way, per public account, which owes her nothing.

A Uniquely American Tale

By RaSul Tahir Hijaz El

The logical-illogical barrier existing between the on-par validity of the Chinese long bean as a commercial restriction affected by its anticipated loss as an agricultural staple at the market price belonging to a stable industrial market, equates itself in that excess to a civil investment of normal, expected, and conditional longevity as a result of belonging within a cultural group of a primary, dominant North American landowner. The boss is sure that the price is the price. So what. Go home.

With due candor, supports on that belonging should occur naturally within the pattern of regionalized anticipations governed by a unit on cultural application (an economic reality) which demonstrates a novel function on self-preservation. In North America, the dominant landownership scheme belongs first to a Continental patriarch and Second to the Meso-American, by recognized tradition and by support on that "domesticated" pathway, an alliance that forcibly installs the Meso-American gateway as an involved barrier to agricultural erosion typical of a defensive network not believed to exist between two interdependent Continents.

In this hemisphere, the well-defined opportunist — a hunter-gatherer society: Unrestricted, Non-restricted, and Restricted, by standard deduction are set first, North American (agricultural-territorial); second, Meso-American (oil & mineral rights conglomeration - A Straw-Boss Enterprise); and third, South American (coca ritualistic) — espionage with a basis for loss of commerce by risking a culturally concealed standard of unpreparedness (guarded theft) within the marketplace(s) tied to a (rigorous) Chinese heritage which it — that N. American, Meso American, S. American Union — reluctantly decides it cannot (always) out-compete.

For Example:

Unproductive wellness — affordable laziness — is (usually) authorized first.

Long and Term defense is (paper) authorized second.

Projected (substitute) loss is always authorized.

A prohibitively dysfunctional proposition on labor, participates without degeneration in those more-or-less routine functions of compulsory labor, each to his solidarity and at no risk of loss to a definite set of genetic characters defined by a potential standard on agriculturalism — that of the original hunter gatherer methods which, in this hemisphere, are a negotiated for alliance that place the concerns of Chinese ancestry in sudden view as a best bet last place (4th place) reminder of industrial (genetic) thought best guarded against (in geologic time) for to complete a set of characteristics which are economically justifiable for that right of continued land-ownership.

Somewhat perversely, however, because of the necessary alignment of migration in this hemisphere with the (absent) wild (domestic) goat of South America (the true Chupa Cabra), and an (anticipated) absent Buffalo (N. American Bison — an inferior absolute of nomenclature) population which is normally threatened by the Ox (a wild goat), and, too, the Asian Yak — whose milk and meat is resigned to a loss by partisan scholarship on an invasive horde.

The valued and not trusted compromise on this elongated Asian collaboration and (N. American) invasion attempt is to allow China Town and deny, deny, deny, subtle conveniences which erode, time-wise, upon contact with those exceptions which assert that N. American gold (mineral rights), silver, etc., can produce a youth formula from a knowledge base of Asian philosophy provided that the South American coca ritualistic society is all for it. The subsidy paid toward freedom from overdeveloped labor is gained by a maturation of the exchange rate for low-income labor vs. high-income labor for the manifestation of a limiting aptitude for which no resolution exists except that which prices a staples market (in this case of "more-or-less": by practice of accountability qualifying a reformed apartheid) out-of-reach of a supported activity — cooking and eating — and, too, inaccessible (baffling) to a guessed knowledgeable, but less able (re)patriating competitor which whom presumed (out of control) cannot be retained at a high wage for that of host — the N. Amerindian, the S. Amerindian, and the Meso-Amerindian — unless an undertaking duty is assessed and a tax applied. China Town is an independent State.

Rationalization upon this topic of a youth formula, however, must prove an avenue of candidacy to a favored reality that cannot actively propose a false pathway. The Seven Cities of Gold

The proposed burden for this research into a promised youth elix(i)r, therefore, is tolerated to pursue the Chinese long bean (testimony by size) and Goat Milk (testimony by weight) because, by such a standard, each are presumed to production at a cost of absolute zero. these cases of available food, an unlikely host, and a traditional method of oversight which expresses doubt upon the house-fly and grace in the same (de)nomination of time over value. That house-fly may, too, not allow that it has become drunken because of this invasion of opportunity and insight. Furthermore, while it can be tolerated by idle persuasion that such an insect has become exhausted in its pursuit of a relatively easy escape route and a potentially easy meal, a proper genetic offering adjusts to a likely formula for explanation.

A person, equipped in a method to a Satan-God industry of fluorescence, can become so drunken in his pursuit and trespass upon recreation, that those features of migration permitted to him as real and necessary, deny observation and create of themselves a daily retirement of those possibilities noted to be traditionally useful to live upon the Earth for a community trusting of biodiversity and those limits expanded by a non-corrupt activation of foresight within those topics.

Expect that in a way that is matched to intuition, a common house-fly, a much displaced near land or window bound spectator of (jet) aircraft (only) — a mechanically organic (but) engineered competitor — not necessarily deserved, but respected and competent as a qualified biological species of interdependent flying life forms, from the relative perspective of the common house-fly, as it observes a strategy upon it that claims the house-fly and/or its offspring as supper. The house-fly must, so too, compete with the jet aircraft, emerging complete from closed facility (a hive), which reigns

Adjunct to this philosophy, of course, are those material matters that cause each aircraft to appear to be flying low and slow, co-relative to an ingenuity that offers this bargain and cannot sleight the mind that must devote a conditional thesis to that event. Discovery — a compartmentalized "What If" — in that natural chain of events, discusses an evaluation of a straight line arc within a hidden evolutionary process

(analysis and thinking) that retrieves feasibility along with the apparatus in proposal to inherit a detectable solution that may prove false except that a theory still must prove reasonable and/or relatively close. A jet aircraft cannot really, nor essentially be taste tested to prove a reality, but it can be inspected. The mind states an opinion that the (jet)aircraft came from nowhere and so, by rationalization, it must appear to be slow(er) (the mind is quick) and take off and land slowly where that (jet)aircraft must also be examined for fault. The house-fly must presume injury to its mechanism, both, at-no-point and again, at-some-point — so that to work out a retirement of those biologically disadvantageous features formed of a jet aircraft that point to obvious drawbacks where witty natural competitiveness searches the conditionally adaptive genetics of the house-fly to guarantee that some of those attributes link themselves as a value and association of increasingly positive reproductive insurances. Such is a near dead-reckoning in the space devoted to geologic time-wise placement of change. It can be concluded, therefore, perhaps quite easily, that natural selection, behind its arsenal of attractive infiltration(s), requires, as a result of this investigation, for the house-fly, a likely quasi-common and trouble-free nutrition plan, or at last, even a specialized sustenance source, too, within this endeavor, which is equally supportive of a prospective jet solution.

The slight variation and departure from a noted set of flying characteristics of a house-fly, which have been developed toward and, as a formula, forward of a locked dependency not in deviance to its continued welfare — deepens a trued value which solicits a logic to assist the house-fly in avoiding a bird in flight or on an intercept path(way) — else it is consumed, surpassed, or displaced. The sometimes newly arrived common house-fly which transported itself from one side of the State to the other without apparent harm to its caloric conscious interface with a certain reality of that distance versus tolerance of events inside of a closed living space of a (jet)aircraft, which finds itself now, after disembarking, again inside, but inside, now, the margin of a restaurant. An inferred straight line arc is perhaps registered — a one which is responsive to an idea that isolates a preferred food source that is conveniently available (cheap) and/but affordably remote (lightly guarded). Combined now with a long-term survey of the (jet)aircraft and its technique(s) which enables it yet to avoid predation despite it's convincing clamor, the house-fly can now sometimes afford to practice a flight routine which it believes might bring it honey — a digestible fat — a food source it has inspected and selected over spilled oil (petroleum). The house-fly remains not dejected, perhaps, in this ritual, and does not resist the urge to test, when accessible, animal and vegetable cooking fats that match well to a lesson of flight it is attempting to duplicate. A view from a window of its high-flying jet competition every now and then prepares the house-fly to match a design of that mobility to a novel, but traditional application — survival. The pesky surroundings of a restaurant — thankfully free of birds — elaborates a compromise and establishes a how, when, and where process that suggestively outlines a protection plan to develop a competitive instruction of the limits on this type of flight which obscures speed and accepts a caloric benefit, yet, possibly, allows the house-fly to surprise a rival with its ability to shortly cover a vast distance.

Subjection of these ideas, on enfranchisement to opportunity, recommends that the honey bee(s) took a different route to this interim speculation, and so, each, consistent with a considered activation supports, theoretically, that the struggle for a biologically patented jet engine stalled with the act of (devised) honey and the royal jelly — an artificial product. The house-fly could be a dead-end evolutionary species. Rules, however . . .

Rather impossibly, the Homo Sapiens species of Man, without much evidence, it seems, other than that of an essentially unrivaled beauty industry, allows that Royal Jelly, anticipated as a longevity serum within the spectrum of convergence that contagiously follows its use as a culturally outsourced and specialized over-the-counter dietary

A normally standard cure-all, however, usually admitted to serendipity, never quite balances the intellect which, allowed to dwell, forges a mismatch to a product process and a gathering beyond that boundary, which, hush-hush (tolerated), denotes a fatigue of political corruption(s) upon a paved road.

The common house-fly expects to be able to transfer an instinctive knowledge, licensed upon a genetics based compromise, that, as an eyewitness account of a traveller — so anticipated and reviewed as a work of perception within a written study that is organised, as well, by those formats of religion (such as a gospel undivided) that provide a comprehensive analysis of a natural order within and without a supernatural cause for scripture — a truth of sortings that depends, universally, upon a creed and devotion given to special cause and speculation, but determined by merit to format an educated intuition supported by physical laws.

Translocation of the house-fly from a place of origin, given that an inserted value upon that introspection at a later point in time, activates a description of that association with an inventory of language that occupies an expectation that may or may not be verbalized, but is accountable as verbatim. Memory. Instinctive behavior attends a plausible example of those cues while a "hole" yet is retained by invention so to order a device that is self-matriculating — such as awareness of the

With deliberate effort, one may presume that a commonly placed house-fly loses accountability to those limitations because of staid preoccupations owed to acceptable convictions which, in their place, become marginalized or compartmentalized to a stature of maturity that participates with reality. The Homo Sapient Human Being, also versed in a conventional self-reliance, has on some level rationalized that Royal Jelly is a dead-end philosophy for prioritizing a rating that delivers to his household a shrewd plan to subsidize his long-term welfare to that supported, but broken prescription.

Value upon that tradition supposes that an investigator can stop here, of course, and require of himself no more on this topic of wealth.

Even yet, however, to furnish and/or exploit a developed niche, the house-fly, prospectively, if he is noticed playing copy-cat, must achieve an event that places it younger than the honey-bee on the evolutionary scale, so that the honey-bee(s) — which whom own the hive industry to the

The superior risk to the house-fly in its quest to end dependency, naturally, are the microwave, radio and television signals that secure a(n) (un)limited, (in)contestable advantage to the (jet)plane and its associated hive-industry. There is hardly a reason in the world where it will be found, but it must (not) be(come) expensive or this improvement will cause such an elixir to become either larger, smaller, or developmentally, too brainy — and "bonkers" to (a) bondage will engage a reality.

I had a young woman tell me that the grill belonging to a non-profit (The Volunteers of America) does not personally demand or institutionally require that she, upon my report of the grill being found missing by me, investigate or make a report to the local police department (Melrose Park IL). Believe the experts. She — being not a manager — is not one of them. The Melrose Park Police Department said to me that a report should be made. I value my time.

It occurred to me that, if the operation actually carries insurance — and I think that it's clear on that point — you have to report anything that is missing or covered under the policy unless it is covered by another plan. The young lady's plan was to basically tell me to shut my mouth talking to her. Incredible. I told her that I was merely relaying a message. Naturally, whatever her fantasy was that day, she was in agreement with it. Stop talking to me was her next suggestion. Like always, I replied that,

"hey, this ain't really my business, okay." or something like that, but my plan was a little different than hers anyway. There's hardly any probability of examining the intellect on a dumb response to a simple message from me, a public school teacher. The classroom is not apparent, but if it's a mistake, that's just a reality check. I suggested to her that her procedure was faulty and left the area. Get some help, lady. I'd normally think she's a bit over-sexed, sure, but it ain't really my fault or my problem. I'm not on drugs with her and her friends if she has any at all anyway.

Altogether, in my best opinion, the (Federal) Government has, by State allotment(s), only thirty, sixty, or 90 days to declare mistrust — an anti-competitive lawsuit that results in a crime of ownership by Government of property, the method or means to enterprise, inclusive sometimes as well, too, are those associated intellectual properties which, without coercive function (Such as, note: Please Register — also a subterfuge of government, but not necessarily), belong to a discriminating position as a factor and vehicle to a market — especially and expressly where a confusion and terrorism find (less) favor with basic administration. If you want a job, you'll have a job — not the other way around. The intended for colloquialism(s) must be noted here.

Government (at the Federal level usually) — a non-profit enterprise — engage a war-making technology as a profitable business enterprise.

Government has only a limited time to find a private owner because it cannot legally own any assets that fail. Hence the 30 days to 90 days time-frame — a limited warranty period.

One staff member (The Volunteers of America) — not a manager — said that the grill had possibly been given away to a (non-staff) volunteer who helps out sometimes. That is gift-giving. That's a bad practice on general principle due to contract reasons binding the workplace function to residential and/or client commitments which outline a policy procedure that demands a no violation code in the bargain. Unless provoked by a reasonable standard, I shouldn't leave and have someone authoritatively claim that I had anything to do with what actually might be a theft. A reliable report admits to a relatively reliable standard when such a report is reasonably attempted.

This equipment, too, of the (aero)space type, cannot, so too, become a gift to snare a victims list — a practice which, unlawful, tends to delay the obvious and increase, exponentially, the extension of a war-pact upon the (free) populace.

A (public) inspection (by available or forced contract) must, therefore, (emergency) "LOT" the "stolen" material assets of the confiscated war products machine and tailored industry (in opposition to non-emergency "impounding" or "cataloguing") for the purposes of describing an unsafe condition — a tag which must, at last, call for a demolition and/or a disposal. This process must normally begin within one year and complete within a described period — normally not to exceed a standard warranty period which could be or take up to ten years. However, if a name — given at the time of the public inspection — by the Private-Government contact cannot be matched with the records on display (A Flag or Emblem) and registered thereof to the public service (The Flag or Emblem must not be defeated by a concurring or optional device of government known as complete authority to surrender), the entity must be "let go at the scene" and an unlawful occupation — a trespass warrant — must be issued, and the property must be returned to the ownership of the public on contact and contract to proceed with a dismantling. A private citizen client cannot normally participate in this type of arrest as long as the local police force can be assumed logical and ideal and accepts that:

By their absence (of arrests): Those missing documents — a 30-days, 60-days, or 90-days event (based upon the reality of a machine construct which exists in repair of a determinatively incomplete assignment in opposition to known performance data) — those failing to establish their identities (all flags and emblems must be removed) as non Government Issues (G.I.s), upon that trespass, by admission of point-of-entry control — become the property of government now assignable to an institution, and those persons may be taken into custody by this force — the LOCAL Police (with a name plate) which whom license themselves to this affair from a conceded post, such as a township or a village.

The government(s) is/are now presumed to be bankrupt.

The Public cannot assume this bankruptcy as an asset. A religious artifact will be presumed to exist. A sacrifice cannot be called for. A new method of exchange must be made available. Government cannot out-compete the basis for life.

Where, potentially, the (former) United States is concerned and/or connected, continued surveillance upon these events is contended upon by the laws of Salem Massachusetts until such time as those rituals are uncovered and called into account.

Colonial documents must portion a way out.

I only spent (close to) five years on active duty, but, Hey, I'm a veteran of the United States Airforce. All this is just kinda my opinion, of course. It seems like I'm still homeless for no reason, no professional purpose, and no cause.

I've been here at the Volunteers of America in Melrose Park IL for some six months waiting on something to prioritize. Stop cheating. This isn't Vietnam. A demon will claim that there was no contract.

The point is that the manager, Bruce Jones, told me that if I was getting something good to eat and keeping up my health (my end of the bargain) that the use of a transportation card was authorized. I spent $18 on some excellent pork ribs from the store. Just a couple of slabs — I thought that with the grill, I'd smoke them on top of some wood. The grill had been there for almost six months, until it disappeared only over-night only after I decided to get some ribs to barbecue. I had never used their grill before either. Nobody bothered to tell me that it could just be given away. That's kinda like a demonic plan. It's kind of creepy

I think. I have a kick scooter anyway.

The first staff member, the young lady, told me that I couldn't use the grill anyway unless it was a holiday. Mr. Bruce Jones never told me that. In simple language, his opinion was that I should get some charcoal. But this is all really just too weird for me. You guys are starting to really stink. Your manners really suck too. I went and purchased some rib-tips from a Maywood local BBQ joint for maybe $13 bucks or so. Can't really complain. I still have the ribs I bought from the store. They're in the freezer.

One day I'll be able to move out of this place. I expect that you guys'll be able to afford it. The school semester has already started. The Volunteers Of America have already stranded me without a job and apparently despise my contracts and educational involvement plans. You guys'd think I'd do better than this by now — with your mouth and all. Volunteers Of America — Was it really even your grill? I'd like to think that is was not. What's the game?

Jerrod Carmichael Quits by Talk2

a sitcom that features a family of black people who discuss every day topics from "Plan B birth control" to "the N-word". They take the topic of the show, no matter how controversial, and do a masterful job of making the topic hilarious, while exposing the audience to different perspectives on it.

Well, the show is coming to an end after 3 seasons. Not because of ratings. Not because of protests. Because the creator and star of the show has decided that 3 seasons is enough and that he wants to quit.

First of all, I totally understand that Jerrod Carmichael has the right to do whatever it is that he wants. However, this is yet another black-created show, within the past decade or so, that I can recall, that has suffered an unceremonious death.

This show was groundbreaking. Like "In Living Color" before it, it took stereotypes and racism and turned it into something comical.

Dave Chappelle pushed the envelope on what was offensive and what was funny. For three seasons, he ruled the airwaves as the funniest man on TV until he walked away from the show and a $50 million dollar contract from Comedy Central.

A lot of people speculated on why he left, but in the end, a very creative show, that opened people's eyes to racism, double standards, and more, was no more.

For years, people waited to see if Chappelle would ever bring the show back, but the closest we got was him reviving some characters from his show on a Saturday Night Live appearance last season.

What could he have done with Obama's election, Tiger Woods scandal, or other things that occurred after his show went off the air. We'll never know.

The Boondocks (2005-2008, 2010, 2014)

This show started as a hilarious comic strip, that I sometimes wonder how it even got printed in most newspapers.

The show featured a radical, modern day, young Black Panther known as Huey Freeman (named after Huey P. Newton). The story centered around his family (granddad and little brother) and their new surroundings in suburban America. From the hood to a white environment, the family dealt with everything from racism to the LGBT community.

This show hit on a ton of topics surrounding the black community, including a number of topics that tend to make black people uncomfortable (our idolization of celebs, gay rappers, etc.).

The show never seemed to get traction as each season always appeared to the last. The show would take hiatus so much that most viewers thought that it was canceled, when it was indeed not. Whether it was creative control issues with the creator, Aaron McGruder, or problems finding the right people to voice the characters, the show ultimately disappeared.

I could add another show in Key & Peele, which lasted from 2012-2105 until they decided to move on to bigger and better things. And now add The Carmichael Show to the list.

Another show greatly appreciated by deep thinking fans that has gone the way of the dinosaur just out of the blue. I was not a fan of Jerrod Carmichael prior to the show, but I hope to be a fan of his in the future. All of that remains to be seen as he moves on to his next project. However, my question is: why are these people quitting? Why are black creators walking away

Ms. Coffy, of (Presumably Volunteers of America) at Hope Hall (Melrose Park IL),

First of all, when I ask you a question which is normal, you should answer the question. Stop attempting to bait me and side-step the obvious. What is the spelling of your name? Anyone would ask that question after listening to your hate speech against reality. I have to be much more deserving of fair responses which do not reach for contempt nor intercept untruth. In my estimation, ridicule is not a favored response in your position which you have, to me, as yet, been unable to identify. I do not believe — not purposely — that you have any formal education at all beyond the 8th grade. You are embarrassing enough in your infantile display of aggression against a policy and written procedure that supposes a common reserve of normal activities assume and support not a locked door to the READING ROOM, which you, without authority, in the method of Bruce Jones, an acknowledged manager of this facility, who has not contrived, in my opinion, to option this resource to your control and advisement, for to do in this activation of certainty, what as you wish, despite obligations, and, as well, with your country mouth attached to that formula. Ms. Coffy — again I cannot help but feel remorse for your condition — however,

Get that thing through your thick.) against a simple participation will not agree with the subsidies invested in your path to continue your deranged argument against me for that reserved right — the READING ROOM. I don't have to presume too much here, Ms. Coffy. I do not like you. I am not sexually attracted to you either. I think your attitude stinks. It offends me that you get angry that I wish to sleep. I have every authority to rationalize a point. You would do well to find somebody else to pick on. There is a BED in the READING ROOM. Stop telling me that I can't expect to be able to sleep on it and, too, that you will call the police if I do. Thank You. Ms. Coffy, I believe that you are insane.

How dare you, from a position which you make unremarkable, attach ignorance to my accomplishments as a Public School Teacher (MS) and forge a battle in clear opposition of your clerical authority, to verbally, without accuracy, despite known vehicles, consistent in their display, insist to others that I am not a Public School Teacher. Your claim is absolutely without foundation. Ms.

Coffy, I believe that you are insane.

Ms. Coffy, I believe that in your hatred, you are growing abusive. This is at least the third episode with you in which you have demonstrated to me an obvious disregard for natural command. Those powers should condemn your ways. My speculation that you, having allowed at least one other male occupy the READING ROOM, whom, in this case, for having done so, I do admit that I see you not only as a demon, but a racist, as well. use the resource called the READING ROOM. I don't want anything you have to offer. Do not expect me to approach you in that manner. I won't. Stop telling people that you are afraid of me. That is ignorant. Okay? I'm not in love with you. Believe that. If I can utilize the convenient area to separate myself from you, if I accept that you are on drugs, it does help. A logical exercise of theoretical and statistical demonstrations presumes not too much on you. Ms. Coffy, I insist that you stop telling people that you are afraid of me and focus your business. Your not maintaining a structure on par with a candid persuasion incites me to note your trespass. This place is not that big.

Any woman who expresses such candid hatred for a man, not only is vexing for me, but I have in the length of the circumstances presented to me, labored in agitation against a shy supposition that such a woman must be a lesbian. Ms. Coffy, you are the only staff member here (presumed that you are a legitimate staff member, of course. It seems that you walked in here off of the street.) who was hired after I filed a Federal complaint against The Volunteers Of America — a fact which, if it is indeed a fact, does — and you do require that option on my vantage point — I find your employment here grotesque and inoperable. Ms. Coffy, it alarms me that you consider me to be homosexual. That is your ego. If you are in fact this type of lesbian, then good. It must suit you. Don't try to get me to blend the bullshit for you. There is nothing womanly about me. Get a job. A Magic Box or what, perhaps, is conveniently termed a Replicator (of sorts) could actively exist inside of a generic space-and-time continuum as part of a realistic mode of thinking which requires that a requested set of circumstances — a labor — must account for truth where such a requirement is known to be delivered by a route of ingenuity that finds a systematic application of engineering called on by a function of sleep.

For Example:

The cost from an assembly line process of a device charger which is unique to a singular special purpose machine only, is normally fixed to a standard that terms a "process & promotion" with "comfort on desire" to link a caused fix that self replicates a short sale (custom manufacturing) with a long sale (expanded capacity) to cure an awkwardly enduring price found at the beginning.

People are always sick and getting sick. A cog denies that shortfall on labor. Insurance delivers freedom, sexual revolution — a byproduct of hypocrisy — and faith (live births).

Consider Second: The electronics charger, specialized at $20 each on a manufactured probability and process cures a labor change at a rate of 0% on a twenty year investment after an educational payoff of ten years plus two (twelve) while a blind(ed) five remains hidden and/or readjustable at either end of the line. Such entertains ten years of free training. Parental and Self-Teaching — after having been taught to pay attention to struggle. The cost of too much struggle, too little gain is not productive to the Union. An imaginary line has been drawn and witnessed by the press of conditional confidence in classical calculation. The actual cost of the charger is now close to $0, because of the time off necessary to gather one's bearings.

Consider Lastly: An armed escort to goods and of services denies a manufacturing process. Only a forgetful manufacturer would stoop to violence for the sake of the cardiovascular health and gold or silver.

Promoting an armored car restricts the momentum of a dollar guarded by a balance of cop(per)ed cents.

For Example: A single $100 Calculator is free to a student living on campus for four years. His fifth year in also normally free. The warehouse store would not run down this student to ask of him the labor to dismantle, return, or service a product invested in by a cheapskate (with a tutor, i.e. a slide-rule).

lose the solar gravitational nuclear strength of its atomic momentum — that such a Kingdom, by hiding the basis of their consult with an atomic table of elements, can gather and retain a set invisibility and shall not fail. Certainly, by Terrestrial standards, where it can be thoughtfully prepared and sustained for such that Pure Water and Plasma exist in a bonded relationship and a one-to-one ratio throughout the Cosmos, now that natural life can be witnessed as an atomic event.

For Example:

The Satan-God will attempt to use and/or reuse biological waste(s) in a way not supported by the data collected for a shared convenience as a fertilizer with practicable ethical constructs.

The Satan-God, to escape a solar rotation, does, by pretense, not know to bathe. 'He is caught cheating when, at some point, 'his "living water" must recognize "Wait" and Safety – attributes both necessary and conducive to a pattern of Life – the genetic schematice that persists despite magic. The Satan-God wishes to be expendable and favored at the same time, but does not wish to have a Soul (Sol). The Satan-God connected to a systematic base of hypocrisy professes hatred and concentrates, at last, an invalid welfare upon a state of reasoning. The Satan-God insists that a stench be preserved, though the day has channeled a change in logic which depends upon sanity. Such is Black Magic.

Being. Bitter and Sour exist at an opposite characteristic reward value for that of Alertness – a pathway of Love, or trust, that wakens the psyche to weakness so to overcome immaturity.

(but now wakened to weakness, i.e. Suspicion, by consumptive overkill)

Too sour beverages – especially of the non-nutritive type – are an attempt to reverse the attendant priority of Love, or trust – a valued bio-commodity and essence essential to the maintenance of Sweetness and Pungency – the manufactured target on a Plant Kingdom driven

"Sleep Now" cycle where Rest and/or Sleep are a hidden emotion equaling Love and Trust on the Homo Sapiens Human Being in his associated biological activation which is sustained on a principle of a Plant Dominant evolutionary engineering.

Problem: Bad investment.

For Example:

Biologically sustained fruit technologies of a natural cultivar, w/o speculation (solicitation to the contrary) are, by taste, 99% popular and, predictably, only 1% unpopular – with Sweet being the most satisfying. Along with this, advertising attracts a veto of this establishment to force a competitive 90% (Sweet) to 10% (Other) market of allowances on fetal restrictions to this commerce, except for the enterprise of functional testing on the environment a normal gestation admits to by the developing functional child and its placental transfixion (a necessarily atomic event which only just might be a primary function to this cause) which establishes a cognitive goal to intercept sleep, (and so) resultant(ly), to trigger a pineal event upon Cause and Effect, should that participating collaboration compete only unless because of a syndrome of (Black) Magic and not a terrestrial event, i.e., "(and so) resultant(ly)" = That Which Cannot Be Witnessed (A Pineal Event). A child can, thusly, be born into the world full of knowledge(s).

The known Biological fruit technology of an authoritative Plant Aristocracy that shapes those convenient pathways to emotional instruction is not so easily outwitted by those distinctively man-made barriers to a co-existing factor of awareness doubling as neutrality.

Such force of reason, complex though it may be, demands that the Homo Sapient Human Being – aware now of an impending crisis or plight – search for, react to, or activate a messenger to accept or reject Rest and/or Sleep where that dispatch to the emotion is a product of the Satan-God, an invisible enemy that has now become visible to the sense organs and their normal range of detective orientations acting upon an artificially imposed stimulus. This chemistry – an event which can be recorded for analysis – can be rendered or prepared in the presence of Bitter and Sour – a Neutrality – and, therefore, realized as either True or False: A reaction of known origin.

For Example:

– Acceptable (usually Organic); Unacceptable (usually Not Organic) – Where an unsatisfactory chemistry, completed upon the organism of the Homos Sapient Human Being, founds a basis to inquire after a predatory attack. Sleep occurs. This, these types of sleep, in favor of the Homo Sapient Human Being whom witnesses, recalls, or establishes a genetic shift of reasoning at the level of vegetable and/or fungal alliances, must agree with an accountable and measured variable tied to an evolving turn of events (the predator is invisible and always too quick); and so equips the Homo Sapiens species with an advantage in excess of a suspected or demonstrated unfair advantage given a once visible predation method. The opposing sleep pattern – one that is carbon restricted – is (almost) entirely defeating and leads to death or morbidity. Cheating on an expected solution to weariness can lead to the sudden death of an attacker, especially where the victimized mind is known to be clear of disease or not possessed of pathology. This state of mind can recognize an astral body and/or symbol.

The Central Nervous System (CNS) must experience this flux as "Up(s)-and-Down(s)" – an overt chemical reaction upon the Regime Of the Body (conflicted not with the Terrestrial Magnetic Poles), and timed at the Solar Plexus and its accumulated accomplished resources of critical healing and thought which manage an injury to the CNS so to describe to itself those mechanical methods to maintain or self-manipulate the Natural Aura.

The EKG/Physical Therapy routine is an example of a Satan-God technology that is used to attempt to overcome the deliberate (mis)timing of the Solar Plexus by the (un)injured Body. Extrapolation presumes that sharing the results of an Eastern therapy practice upon any of the meridians with any electrocardiogram specialist shares with him an additional consideration where Consternation – Death of the Patient – concludes upon that overactive result, a topical analysis of a theory which describes the effort of Chi upon the necessary meridians afforded dependency within those changes for the sake of homeostatic appendages. Attacking the Solar Plexus after having received a warning is productive in achieving a pathway to the eyes for the continuous activation of (Head) Chi, the Third Eye – a force of near normal magic only – but magic nonetheless. This magic can seek to kill. A predator upon the Homo Sapiens Species of Human Being cannot break the rules of survival – survive – and expect to bequeath unto itself a persevering value and asset not riddled by holes in its methods. The creature will be exposed.

Therefore, Navigation upon the Regime Of the Body (Meditation) must result in a solution to health that is not depressing. With the right state of mind, an attacker can be removed from concern despite distance or intervening years.

The productive right of the Homo Sapiens Human Being is to test his surroundings despite his environment. Protected are his basic environment(s) which is well known to him by logic and display. And though his surroundings may be efficient in producing a knowledge base, the environment must yet always remain productive despite a shift to his surroundings.

For Example:

The (Homo Sapiens) Human Being is thought of – relative to divided accounts of religion and/or scripture – to have descended from an Apple or an Apple Tree or likely, too, by inclination, the product of an Apple Tree – all, entreatingly, of the Rose Family. The word

"Divinity" shepherds the reluctant guide or embarrassing advice that there is at least a division of thought in the matter which suggests the Fig – A Rose – could be the responsible creative possibility that gave rise to Woman (her embarrassment:

Tendency toward Pregnancy, Premature Birth, and the Family.) – a thorn or thorns.

The "thorn" in this case of basic restlessness, however, would be in this idea, an Orchid, which, despite its manageable pungency is, developmentally, "Rice" – also a family Rose member. The differing strains of rice opt for confusion in this matter so to cover the track of the Rutabaga – also a "Rose" – a term, or word, now, that cannot escape the etymology of "Ruse" so to imply that which cannot be known (rune) and, too, that which does not sleep (warfare or trickery).

Therefore,; One would presume, not irrationally, that the elixir(s) of life are the normal result of eating an Apple each day: Along with a "few grains of rice" and, too, an Orchid.

The Rutabaga, upon peeling, "looks" sweet. The banana (an Orchid) does not. The Rutabaga activates the Solar Plexus through the eyes.

There is nothing like having the power of writing at your fingertips. When you are angry with someone, you can get even by creating a character in their likeness and doing things to them to get even for their bad behavior. I once read that being a writer is the only profession where you can be a serial killer and legally get away with it. The fun thing is that you can do it from the comfort of your very own home. Today, I felt betrayed. I was hurt by the fact that, once again, my hard work was not appreciated. The good news is that I am not plagued by the fact that there is absolutely nothing I can do about it. I am starting with writing this blog. Not because I want to kill someone off, but because I want to show people that my talents lie above the box in which one would like to place me. It also doesn't hurt that I am working on my next novel and I have decided that a couple of people will be targets of the young woman's rage. (Insert wicked smile here.) So, without further ado, I would like to write this quick short story for you. I hope you enjoy it as much as I am going to enjoy writing it:

Callie

It was a rainy, morning. The sound of the cars passing by caused her much pain as her head pounded from the excruciating migraine from which she suffered. As if that wasn't enough, the neighbors across the street always took delight in leaving their small dog outside to bark. All. Day. Long. The pitter patter of the rain aggressively tip-toed on the window pane and she covered her head with the pillow to drown out the sound. It wasn't working. She tried not to move, not to think, and she didn't want to speak. She wanted to just lay in silence. As if that wasn't enough, some chickens decided to make their presence known, an odd combination for the city in which they've found a home. Where in the world did the chickens come from? She'd seen them before. In fact, she believed they belonged to her neighbor because, after every rain, they would somehow end up in her front yard, pecking away at the mulch in the flower bed. She didn't mind that so much, they reminded her of her childhood at her granny's home. But today of all days, they needed to go away.

Nausea began to set in and she had to peel herself out of the bed and head to the nearest bathroom so that she could vomit. She'd hoped that it would give her some relief, but it only made it worse. "God help me!" she cried aloud. She slowly crawled back to her bed, not caring about how her hands and knees were moving, as long as they moved her back to comfort. Just as she reached the night stand for support, some bills fell to the floor in front of her. Light bill. Water bill. Cable bill. Car note. Rent. Insurance. All past due. She is barely able to eat on the salary she is being paid and the thought made her sad. Tears formed in her eyes as she realized that she has officially hit rock bottom. She crumbled into a puddle on the floor because the crying magnified the pain. Just then, her cell phone dings. It was the personal tone she set for anyone contacting her from work via text message. "Crap!" she thought to herself. She blindly reached for the cell phone on her night stand and stared at the screen hoping her vision would begin to clear. The light hurt her eyes but, thinking of the importance of the message, she persevered through it. She thought back on when she first got the job. Her boss was extremely happy to have her on board.

"We are a small company," he said, "we can't afford to pay you very much initially, and we certainly know that you are worth more than we can afford. But, we have plans for you and we will revisit your salary in forty-five days."

Forty-five days came and went but there was no salary increase, just an increase in responsibility. She also had an increase in expenses as she drove around the city for her employer, paid more in tolls, and spent more in gas. She shook off the thoughts as they angered her for feeling like she was being taken advantage of once again. She looked at the time and saw 10:45 am. She slid over to the bed, trying to find support so she could concentrate on the text message that read, "Team, we would like for you to welcome our new General Manager of Operations. He will be reaching out to you individually to introduce his role."

She couldn't believe what she'd just read. "I'm barely making ends meet because you couldn't afford to pay me my worth and you hired a new GM of Operations!" she tried to say aloud, but the migraine wouldn't allow it. She didn't even have the energy to throw the phone down on the floor so it just slid out of her hand. It hurt for her to be mad and she wanted to type a message back that told them all to go to hell. She knew that they didn't hire him and pay him the pennies they paid her. She also knew that she was being underpaid because she was a woman. However, all she could do, was sit there in disbelief as tears streamed down her face until she could fall back asleep.

At 1:30 pm, she was awakened by the phone ringing. Feeling better, she sat up to try to find it still on the floor beside her. She grabbed it and saw that it was her boss calling her. Even though it was her day off, he called because he knew that she would answer, like always. She didn't. That must have surprised him because he called back two more times to no avail. She stared at the phone, thinking of all the ways she wanted to tell him to get lost and take his job with him. For months, she had been the customer's punching bag, the coordinator, the researcher, Human Resources, and everything in between only to receive that huge slap in the face just hours before. After a few minutes, she heard the familiar ding. It was a text from her boss that read, "Callie can you give me a call? I need a proposal ASAP and you are the only one that can do it." She didn't respond. Instead, she grabbed her computer off the night stand and looked for another job.

I hope you enjoyed the story. What will happen next? Check back next Wednesday for more!

Why Are Women

Only Old Fashioned When It Comes to Dating?

by Talk2

There's a lady who has a crush on me. The only reason I know this to be true is because her sister has told me so. Although I don't feel that her and I are a match, I am honored that she feels the way that she does about me. Guys like to feel wanted, too.

This lady and I have known each other for about 10 years. We used to work together, but at that time I was married. I'm guessing that's why she never gave any real hints that she was into me. Fast forward to now with me being single and I've still yet to see any hints that she's into me.

She smiles when she sees me, laughs at my jokes, but that's about it. A lot of ladies do that out of courtesy, if nothing else. But I never get the impression from her that there's more there.

I'm never going to say anything to her about it because again, I don't think we're a match. However, my whole curiosity behind her crush is: will she ever say anything or give a real hint?

Maybe her sister telling me was all some sort of her master plan, but shouldn't a lady do something to show that she likes a guy? There's no serious eye contact with me, no touchy-feely, or crowding my personal space. Nothing.

Instead, it's the same ol', same ol'.

In a country with so many single women looking for men, why are so many of them hush-hush on their feelings?

I probably know what you're thinking: "Well, Q, I'm old fashioned and I think that it's a man's job to pursue a woman."

I can understand that, but why are some women so up-to-date on everything else in the world, but always old fashioned when it comes to dating?

50 years ago, a lot of women didn't work. 50 years ago, a lot of women didn't go to college. 50 years ago, a lot of women didn't even own a car.

Fast forward to today and all of that has changed because women wanted to change their circumstances. But, when you mention "dating" to a woman, she's "old fashioned". That's the one thing from 50 years ago she decided to hold onto. Why is that?

Because for most of them, it fits their purpose:

If a woman is old fashioned, then she's not expected to "give hints" to a man that she's interested. That also protects her from being rejected.

If a woman is old fashioned, then she's not expected to pick up the tab on a dinner date. There are some women who are in "whole" relationships with guys and still won't pick up the tab every now and then.

If a woman is old fashioned, then she may demand chivalry despite maybe lacking class herself.

In a nutshell, being old fashioned allows her to say "oh, I'm just a woman, so you need to do this for me" when it comes to relationships. Yet, she's a man's equal when it comes to everything else. And some women are running this mindset into the ground.

If we're going to be equals, then maybe we need to go back to the drawing board on this dating stuff and update some things.
